

Do not expand cell phone use by passengers on commercial airline flights. This would be very disruptive and intrusive to passengers who just want to have some quiet- rather than having no choice but to listen to one side of a phone call conversation-- given the compulsion so many people have to be talking on a cell phone during most waking hours.